Many Maternity Homes and Hospitals are Licensed

The inspection of maternity homes, which was started under the Bureau of Child Hygiene in 1925, has become thoroughly systemized during 1927-1928. At least one inspection is made of all maternity homes or hospitals during each year and, where necessary, return visits are made in order to check the institution and be sure that recommendations safeguarding the health of mothers have been carried out. The application for a license to conduct a maternity hospital or home is referred to the health officer for his endorsement prior to inspection. When the inspector visits the premises the rules and regulations of the State Board of Public Health are thoroughly explained, lists of required equipment are checked, and recommendation for license is then made to the board. At succeeding visits, if the standard has been maintained, the inspectors are now permitted to issue an extension certificate of the license without referring to the board; if there has been laxity in care, no extension of the license is made by the inspector without action from headquarters. During this biennium 327 new maternity homes and maternity departments in hospitals have been licensed; 366 reinspections on maternity homes and maternity departments in hospitals have been made. On June 30, 1928, there were 2716 beds for maternity patients. The following is the list of hospitals licensed during the biennium:

In many communities there is gradually developing a relationship between public health and hospital services. More and more clinical activities are being attached to or closely affiliated with hospitals. The care of communicable diseases in general hospitals has, in many instances, broken down the barrier between the general hospital activities and the activities of the health department.

It is increasingly important that the health officer be familiar with the local hospital situation, its needs, its facilities, its problems; how it serves the people and the medical profession. In some instances additional facilities are necessary, in others, better use of the beds present. The surveys of health and hospital activities made by the Committee on Administrative Practice have indicated the need of setting forth clearly for the guidance of the health officer, and other interested public health people, certain of the essential questions in the community relationship of the organized care of the sick.—American Public Health Association.

Epidemic meningitis, with continued warm weather, has diminished greatly in its prevalence.

1 1 1

Chickenpox, measles and scarlet fever continue to decrease in prevalence.

1 1 1

Whooping cough is still to be reckoned with as a serious disease in young children. Its prevalence does not diminish greatly during the summer months.

1 1 1

Five cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported last week.
